Section A - Reading Skills
1	Read the following passage: 1. The growing preference for indigenous craft items is a welcome trend in today's globalised world, where mass - produced goods often dominate markets. These handcrafted products, rooted in the cultural and artistic traditions of their regions, offer more than just aesthetic appeal. They symbolise sustainability, support local economies, and preserve the heritage of diverse communities. 2. One of the primary reasons for choosing indigenous crafts is their eco - friendliness. Unlike factory - made products, most traditional crafts are created using natural, locally sourced materials. Artisans often employ time - tested methods that minimise waste and avoid harmful industrial processes. For example, pottery made from local clay, handwoven textiles using organic dyes, and bamboo - based crafts all have a much lower environmental footprint compared to their machine - made counterparts. By opting for these items, consumers indirectly contribute to reducing pollution and promoting sustainable practices. 3. Supporting indigenous crafts also strengthens local economies. Many artisans depend solely on their craft for livelihood, often working in small communities where opportunities for other forms of employment are limited. When people purchase their products, it provides a direct income to these artisans, empowering them and encouraging their craftsmanship. Initiatives like fair trade further	[10] ensure that artisans receive fair wages, fostering economic stability within their communities.

4. Moreover, indigenous craft items help preserve cultural heritage. Every handcrafted product carries a story - a glimpse into the traditions, beliefs, and skills passed down through generations. In India, whether it's paintings, terracotta jewellery, sculptures, athangudi tiles, mud work frames or many others, each item reflects the unique identity of its region. By choosing these crafts, people not only appreciate the artistry but also help keep these traditions alive in an era where cultural homogenisation threatens diversity.
5. In addition to their economic and cultural value, indigenous crafts add a personal touch to homes and wardrobes. Unlike mass-produced items, which often lack individuality, handcrafted products are unique. Each piece bears the imprint of the artisan's effort, creativity, and dedication, making it special for the buyer.
6. However, the preference for indigenous crafts requires sustained efforts to thrive. Governments, organisations, and consumers all have roles to play. Policies that promote local craftsmanship, provide training to artisans, and create global platforms for showcasing their work can boost the visibility and demand for these products. Consumers, too, must actively seek out and invest in handmade crafts rather than opting for cheaper, factory-made alternatives. Choosing indigenous craft items is a meaningful step toward a more sustainable and culturally enriched world.

1. A recent study conducted across two age groups - students aged 10 - 12 and 13 - 16 explored their preferences for ballpoint and micro - tip pens for various writing activities such as note - taking, examinations, and personal writing. The study aimed to understand trends in writing habits and the factors influencing pen selection among students.
2. The results revealed distinct patterns based on age groups and writing purposes. Among students aged 10 - 12, 65% preferred ballpoint pens for note - taking, citing ease of use and affordability as key factors. However, 35% opted for micro - tip pens, valuing their precision and smooth writing. For examinations, ballpoint pens were the overwhelming choice, with 78% favouring them for their speed and reliability, while 22% stuck with micro - tip pens, appreciating their fine control.
3. In the 13 - 16 age group, preferences shifted slightly. For note - taking, 60% favoured microtip pens, highlighting their ability to produce neat, legible notes, while 40% continued to use ballpoint pens. During examinations, however, 70% still relied on ballpoint pens, indicating their consistency under time constraints. When it came to personal writing, such as journalling or creative tasks, 58% in this group chose micro - tip pens, appreciating the aesthetic appeal of finer lines, while 42% stuck with ballpoint pens for their convenience.
